EPA Lead Awareness RRP

If your company performs work in homes, child care facilities, or elementary/pre-elementary schools built before 1978 or HUD homes, the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is requiring contractors and their employees doing that work to be trained and certified on the EPA's Lead-Based Paint Renovation, Repair and Painting Program Rules (RRP). These requirements will become effective April 22, 2010 and can be found at www.MinnesotaMCA.org under Special Items section.

To arrange classes we need to know your needs by filling out this survey. This information will be kept private and not shared with anyone.

1. Does your company do work on homes, child care facilities, elementary/pre-elementary schools built before 1978 or HUD homes? Y N
2. How many occasions a year do you do this type of work? _____
3. How many employees work on these projects? _____
4. If training were made available would you send employees? Y N
5. How Many? _____
6. Would you, the contractor, take this class? Y N
7. With limited class size how many would employees would you need trained immediately? _____
8. The EPA trainer costs $275/student. If the price could be reduced would you be willing to wait until May for the training? Y N
9. Company name _____
